

Of all the proposals submitted regarding the morse code retention and restructuring of amature license testing, I believe this proposal is the most balanced. Morse code has been proven to be the most efficient use of the radio spectrum and is often the only mode of communication during poor atmospheric conditions. We need to retain the morse code requirement so that in times of emergencies we have a trained group of operators who can communicate effieicently.